My Background...

Violin playing has been a part of my life for as long as I can remember. I began playing the violin at age 6 and continued throughout my school years into my adulthood. I graduated from Alverno College with a Bachelor of Music. My college degree incorporated music performance and music therapy. My training as a music therapist has been a huge help in developing my level of patience, compassion, and understanding in how music can benefit children. That along with my certification in Early Childhood I & II has given me insight into incorporating music with the education of young children. My performance career has brought me much joy. I have been playing professionally at weddings and dinner parties for 22 years and value the creativity I gained in having all those performances.

Thoughts on teaching...

My theory on teaching violin will be based on the beauty of the instrument and how we can communicate that beauty to the listener and to ourselves. I want to have very clear attainable goals for your child as well as having fun and enjoying their lessons with me. I believe in taking our time with creating a solid foundation for becoming an excellent violinist. Every child learns differently and at his/her own pace, so I will be sensitive to finding the best way to help your child learn this instrument. As a young child I was trained using the Suzuki method and then continued on with more traditional theory and training. I will be incorporating knowledge from a variety of methods as well as other teachers I have watched. My greatest strength as a player has always been my ability to touch the listener with emotion through the music I've played. I would love to pass on this talent to your child. I consider working with children an honor and a privilege, so I thank you for the opportunity to do so!
